Experience and safety

Uneven teeth are not only unattractive but can also be the source for a great range of diseases. Crooked teeth should therefore be corrected for prophylaxis reasons.

The tomas[®]-concept (temporary orthodontic micro anchorage system), a treatment concept developed by Professor Dr. Bumann¹ and DENTAURUM², offers a new alternative to the classical treatment methods available for the correction of misaligned teeth. With this new procedure it is possible to avoid brackets on the front teeth. This is a decisive aesthetical advantage which is especially appealing to adults. Even extremely crooked teeth can be treated effectively, comfortably and invisibly using the tomas[®]-concept.

Innovation and use

The tomas[®]-concept is a new treatment method to correct misaligned teeth in a manner which is faster, and more comfortable for the patient. It provides the combined advantages of conventional treatment; almost invisible and very comfortable to wear. In order to achieve more space, tooth extraction is a common option. With the tomas[®]-concept, the patient is spared this procedure. Special cleaning and hygiene is not required. Orthodontic treatment using the tomas[®]-concept is suitable for young patients; there is no age limit for adults.

Investment and the love of life

The tomas[®]-concept can reduce treatment costs; the procedure (material and time) is often less in comparison to conventional treatment options. The tomas[®]-concept has been proven to be a safe and economical treatment procedure. The tomas[®]-concept not only offers an easier and more aesthetical solution to conventional treatment options, it also requires less extractions. The fact that it is possible to provide virtually invisible orthodontic treatment is a very important benefit for patients.
